Dear Educator,

Teaching gives you superpowers—and your students are the better for it! Use the materials in this kit and Dav Pilkey's beloved books to celebrate Reading Gives You Superpowers week and to encourage creativity and imagination all year long. Post your students' work online using the hashtag #ReadPilkey and tag Scholastic to inspire all of us!

REPRODUCIBLES IN THIS KIT

- DOG MAN AND FRIENDS PUPPETS: Invite retellings of Dog Man books with puppets so students can demonstrate an understanding of the story and recall key details to describe characters, settings, and major events.
- STORY IDEAS: Reinforce parts of speech while encouraging creative brainstorming.
- TRY, TRY AGAIN!: Make several copies of this page for each student so they can be free to experiment and try several different story lines without any pressure of perfection. This narrative writing exercise allows students to introduce a character and organize an event sequence that unfolds naturally, as well as use dialogue to show the response of characters to situations.
- DRAWING WITH PERSPECTIVE: In addition to a fun art lesson in linear perspective drawing, introduce STEM concepts with this exercise by having students expand upon it by creating one- or two-point perspective drawings of a city skyline.
- SHOWING EMOTIONS: Highlight the CASEL 5 Social Awareness competency as students demonstrate empathy and compassion while exploring synonyms for various emotions.
- LIGHTS! CAMERA! ACTION!: Invite students to work in groups to either write scripts for their own creative endings for this scene using descriptive details and clear event sequences or to transcribe words and actions from the book to complete it. Practicing teamwork and creative problem-solving is at the heart of the CASEL 5 Relationship Skills competency. Have your student groups perform scenes for other classes!
- FIND YOUR PURPOSE FLOW CHART: Here's a fun exercise for kids to zero in on what types of pursuits most appeal to them. Developing interests and a sense of purpose is a key component of the CASEL 5 Self-Awareness competency.

Thank you for all you do to share the joy of reading!

TRY, TRY AGAIN!

Sometimes we're so afraid of making mistakes that we don't even want to try. But Li'l Petey and Molly want you to make a comic!

Take a story idea from the previous worksheet and try it out!

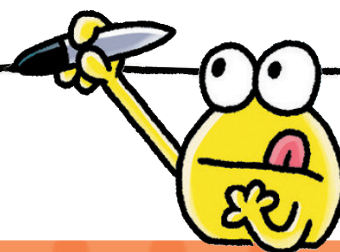

Create a scene for your characters.

DRAWING WITH PERSPECTIVE

Copy the baby frog Pink and draw your name in bubble letters. Make a dot, called a vanishing point, above or below your name and draw a line, called an orthogonal line, from each of the edges of your letters to the vanishing point. Ta da! Practice perspective drawing with shapes, too!

SHOWING EMOTIONS

Create a character and practice drawing faces that show you can empathize—understand their feelings—in the following situations.

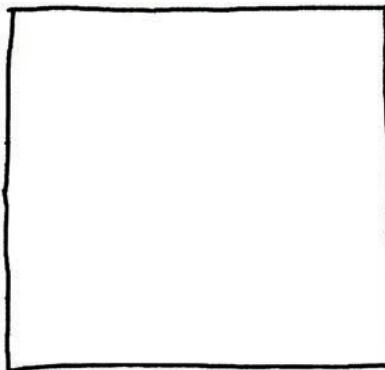

Write two words to describe each emotion.

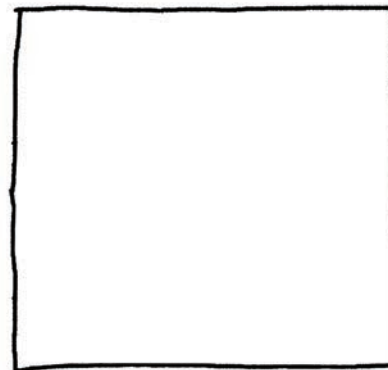

First day at a new school

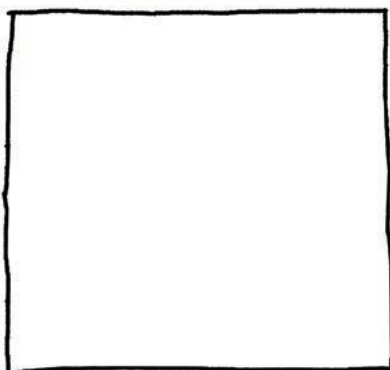

Getting a new puppy or kitten

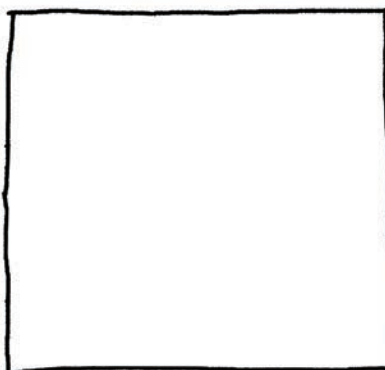

Last one picked for the team

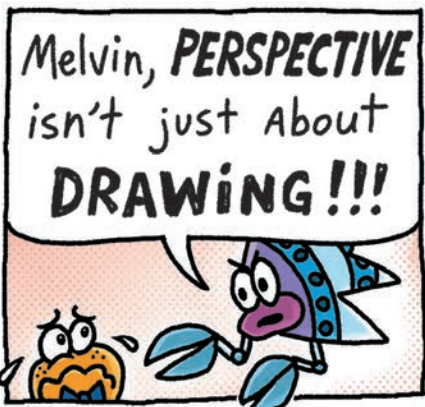

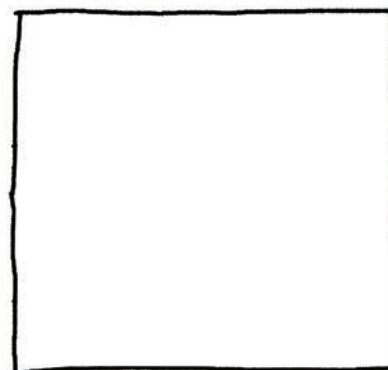

Dropping a tray of food in a busy cafeteria

Guest of honor at a surprise party

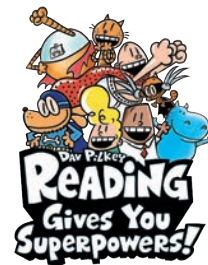

Getting an A on a math test

LIGHTS! CAMERA! ACTION!

Melvin has sent Naomi's comic, "The Under Werewolves," to a publisher. Naomi shares her comic with the class and tells them that at first, she thought only some people could draw, but while working on her comic, she discovered something important. Write the end of this scene from Cat Kid Comic Club: On Purpose. Then act it out with friends!

Li'l Petey: We have a big surprise! But we can't tell you until
[Molly interrupts Li'l Petey and shouts.]

Molly: Sarah is coming tomorrow!!!

Li'l Petey: Hey! That was supposed to be a surprise!!!

Molly: Sowwy!

[Drake excitedly raises his hand to be called on.]

Drake: Are we gonna be on TV?

Li'l Petey: Yeah, probably!

Flippy: And I expect you children to be on your best behavior!!!

El: Aw, maaaaan!!!

Drake: We're gonna be famous!!! Does anyone want my autograph?

Frida: No.

Melvin: Naomi's the famous one! She's gonna be a published author!

[Naomi leans in to whisper to Melvin.]

Naomi: Psst! And illustrator!

Melvin: And illustrator!

[Kendrick looks at Naomi's comic.]

Kendrick: Did you really draw this all by yourself?

Naomi: Yeah.

Kendrick: Wow! I didn't even know you could draw!

Naomi: I didn't know I could draw, either.

[Naomi stands and extends her right arm straight up and points her index finger skyward.]

Naomi: But then . . . I had a revelation!

YOUR TURN

What was Naomi's revelation about drawing??

Finish the script with speaking parts, sound effects and [stage notes].
