The BEST research-based collection of leveled books and guided reading materials available!

Scholastic Guided Reading Programs

Guided reading is an instructional approach that involves a teacher working with a small group of students who demonstrate similar reading behaviors and can all read similar levels of texts. The text offers challenges and opportunities for problem solving, but is easy enough for students to read with some fluency. The teacher provides support, but the ultimate goal is independent reading.

Scholastic Guided Reading Programs are comprehensive reading programs that integrate guided instruction, assessment, and independent practice into the classroom by offering a wide range of outstanding leveled books and teaching materials.

The Good Dog

Summary & Standard

McKenny is the top dog in town, but his authority is challenged when a dog is abused by the wild. Students will learn about the importance of being a good dog.

Author: Avi
Genre: Fantasy
Text Type: Chapter Book

Making Connections: Text to World

A dog is the narrator in the story, but the setting and situations are realistic. Ask students who have dogs to explain how their pets communicate with them and how the dogs are trained to behave in certain ways. Extend the connection by pointing out that dogs and wolves are related and share many behaviors. However, wolves are wild animals and are endangered. This is often due to conflicts between humans and wolves. Point out that it is important to understand the behavior of wolves in order to protect them.

For more information about wolves, see <http://nationalwildlife.org/Animals/NorthAmerica/Texas/Text-grades1-6.pdf>.

Vocabulary

Essential Words: appreciation, bonding, frustration, overwhelmed, submission, tentative

Related Words for Discussion: endangered, responsibility, survival

Genre/Text Type: Fantasy/Chapter Book

Have students that a fantasy is a story that could not happen in the real world. The story unfolds with each new chapter.

ELL Bridge

Explain to students that McKinley lacks the vocabulary descriptive phrases instead. Point out phrases McKinley uses (barking, growling, sniffing) and have students create a three-column chart each term in "dog language."

Teaching Card, Level S

Teaching Options

Developing Comprehension

Thinking Within the Text

Have students identify the problems that McKinley faces in his daily life. (He shows fear to Debbie, the wolf's presence, Barbara's challenge to McKinley's leadership, and the pair's desire to run away with the wolf.) Discuss how these problems are connected and how the solution to one problem also solves another problem.

Thinking Beyond the Text

Have students think about how the author includes a message about the treatment of dogs and wolves as part of the plot. Ask: What do you learn about pet care after reading about Barbara's dilemma? (Dogs need exercise, love, and proper care.) How does Logan's injury make the reader more aware of the dangers wolves face? (People often hurt wolves out of fear.)

Thinking About the Text

Have students notice how the author builds suspense at the end of chapters. The author hints at something that may happen or set up a situation that needs to be resolved. The effect is that readers want to keep reading. Read pages 57-61 and discuss what happens to make readers want to continue. (The wolf is on the trail coming straight toward them.)

Visualizing

Tell students that an author's choice of words helps them visualize, or picture, what a scene looks like. Vivid words and descriptions help readers picture a scene in their minds.

- Have students read page 77 and identify how the author describes McKinley's actions. Ask: How do these actions show McKinley's intelligence?
- Have students read pages 90-96. Ask: Why is this description more effective than simply saying that the wolf attacked the humans?

For more prompts and ideas for teaching problem-solving strategies, see page 88 of the Guided Reading Teacher's Guide.

Developing Phonics and Word-Solving Strategies

Strong Verbs

Remind students that verbs tell what actions occur. Strong verbs help readers visualize the action of a scene.

- Read aloud page 113. Ask students to listen for verbs that describe how characters speak to each other. (barked, growled, whined) Discuss how each verb helps them more clearly picture each character's actions. Then have partners read page 120 and note strong verbs that help them picture the action of this scene.

Developing Fluency

Read aloud a page, modeling how fluent readers pay attention to punctuation and chunk phrases, and adjust their pace. Then have partners take turns reading aloud a page to each other.

Oral Language/Conversation

Talk About Endangered Animals Lead a discussion about how humans interact with wild animals and how humans can help endangered animals.

Extending Meaning Through Writing

- Have students write a small brochure that explains certain dog behaviors and what people should do in response. (Expository)
- Have students rewrite a scene from another character's point of view. (Narrative)

Connecting to Practical Literacy

In the story, Jack has read a lot about wolves and thinks he has spotted one. To link students to real-world expository text, share a feature article about wolves, preferably one that includes photographs or diagrams. Point out how this information might help students distinguish a wolf from a dog. For more expository text types, go to <http://www.gle.org/english/grades/wolves/>.

Help students think critically about and beyond the text.

Extend meaning through writing and expanded reading lists.

Connect to real-world informational texts.

Build the background knowledge and academic vocabulary English language learners need to succeed in English!

New Connections® to English

New Connections to English features carefully selected children’s literature to provide English language learners with access to academic language and the opportunity to build background knowledge. With these K–8 libraries, students can move through three early proficiency levels, increasing language and literacy at each level. The program also addresses the five components of reading: phonemic awareness, phonics, fluency, vocabulary, and comprehension.

The New Connections to English library has a variety of different genres and is designed for independent reading, partner reading, and read aloud in order to reach its goals of increasing proficiency levels and academic knowledge.

New Connections to English will help English language learners:

- Develop vocabulary and oral proficiency.
- Practice academic language.
- Use explicit and intentional reading strategies.
- Access curriculum content.

Grade 3 Library

Build essential mathematics concepts and skills with children's literature.

The Marilyn Burns Classroom Math Libraries

Developed by one of America's leading math educators, The Marilyn Burns Classroom Math Libraries offer age-appropriate contexts for motivating students to learn a wide range of mathematical concepts.

Every library features titles that captivate and engage students while serving as a springboard for math instruction. Lesson plans written by Marilyn Burns address grade-level math topics that are at the core of the mathematics curriculum.

The Marilyn Burns Classroom Math Libraries Feature:

- Enable children to connect math to their own experiences.
- Motivate children to learn math in new ways.
- Encourage students to think and reason mathematically.
- Build problem-solving skills through real-world activities.

Marilyn Burns, one of America's most highly respected math educators, is the founder of Math Solutions Professional Development, an organization dedicated to the improvement of math instruction in Grades K-8.

Ms. Burns has spent over 40 years teaching children, leading workshops, creating professional development materials, and writing outstanding books and materials for educators.

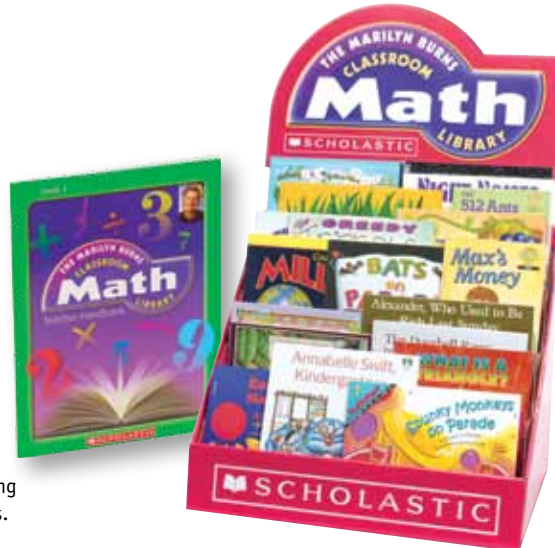

Each Grade-Level Library Includes:

- 45 Trade Books (25 titles total: 1 copy each of 20 titles, 5 copies each of 5 titles)
- Teacher Handbook
- Attractive Storage Bin

“Children’s books help lift math off textbook pages

and spark children’s mathematical imaginations.”

—Marilyn Burns

New! Traits Writing

SCHOLASTIC

Traits Writing™

Ruth Culham's Traits Writing program is made up of print and web-based resources to help you teach writing more efficiently and effectively.

Built on the cornerstones of writing practices (writing process, writing workshop, and writing traits), Traits Writing with NEW grade-specific resources can be put to work every day, week, and month of the school year. Containing carefully timed assessments based on reliable, easy-to-follow scoring guides, Traits Writing informs and targets writing instruction to meet each student's needs.

The program is made up of nine multi-week units:

- A "getting started" unit at the beginning of the year
- Seven core units that follow a "spiraled sequence"
- A "wrapping up the year" unit

Ruth Culham is President of The Culham Writing Company and the recognized expert in the traits of writing. She is the author of multiple Traits of Writing books and professional resources.

Each Grade-Level Library Includes:

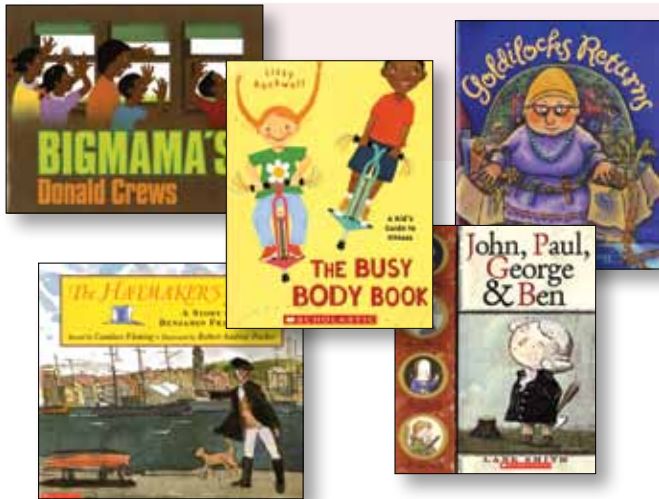

- 26 Mentor Texts
- Student Handbook (25 copies)
- Traits Posters
- Everyday Text Posters (Grades 3-8)
- Comments Book
- 25 Record-Keeping Folders (Grades 3-8)

26 MENTOR TEXTS

A collection of fiction and nonfiction books and “everyday texts” serve as models for teaching the key qualities of the Traits. Books and Everyday Texts align to a lesson in the Teaching Guide and most are accompanied by a video of the writer who created it.

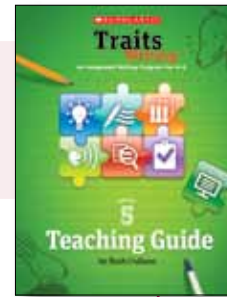

7 TRAIT POSTERS

Cool and colorful posters, one for each trait, that remind students of key qualities to think about as they draft, revise, and edit their work. Each one showcases a “Trait Mate” from the Student Handbook.

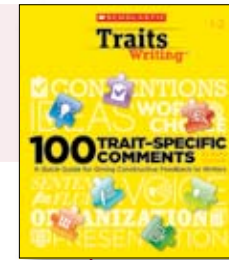

IMPLEMENTATION GUIDE

Explains the instructional model, the research behind it, and ideas for scheduling instruction and managing the classroom. It provides detailed guidelines for assessing writing using the trait scoring guides, converting scores to grades, keeping records, and reporting progress to parents.

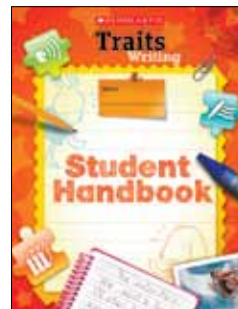

TEACHING GUIDE

Contains focus lessons, mentor text lessons, warm-up activities, differentiated small-group activities, tips for managing independent writing, and much more.

COMMENTS BOOK

Contains 100 “just-right” comments, correlated to the trait scoring guides. Write the comments on papers or use them in one-on-one conferences, small groups, and whole class lessons to inspire your students!

STUDENT HANDBOOK

Includes definitions of the traits and key qualities, worksheets, write-on pages, warm-up activities, “Think Abouts,” author previews, graphic organizers, tip sheets, publishing checklists, and other tools that support instruction in the Teaching Guide.

Give students excellent models of writing!

New! Traits Writing Book Bundles

Trait expert Ruth Culham has developed these collections of picture books by top authors and illustrators to help give students models for writing. The 24 books in each bundle, four per trait, capture a range of genres, topics, and cultural and historical contexts. Read aloud these fine books to the class, discuss them in small groups, carry out the activities in the teaching guides, and watch students' writing skills soar.

Each bundle comes with a sturdy storage tub and a handy, grade-specific teaching guide that contains:

- Background information on each trait and its key qualities.
- An annotated and illustrated list of books in the bundle, organized by trait.
- Fun, effective, teacher-tested activities, based on each trait's key qualities.
- Checklists of trait-specific questions to ask when choosing picture books for teaching writing.
- A chart for pinpointing each book's "target trait" and "secondary trait" at a glance.
- A form for recording model picture books that teachers find on their own.
