

SPRING BULLETIN BOARDS!

SOARING HIGH!

Display a large paper kite on the class bulletin board to encourage and motivate your students in specific areas. As each student accomplishes a required task, reward him or her with his or her own kite bow. Children will love seeing their names prominently displayed.

This easy idea can also be used to introduce new vocabulary words, mathematical concepts or as a way to welcome students to class that first day!

POINT OUT THE BEST!

Emphasize the importance of weekly or daily lessons by "pointing" it out to your students! By using the pattern on the next page, you can "point" out important calendar events, classroom monitors, or the letter or color of the week. Children can assist you in changing the board.

TIME TO BLOOM!

Most classroom clocks have a round face, perfect for the center of a large paper flower! Cut a circle the size of your clock face in the center of a piece of poster board. Cut large paper petals and leaves from colored construction paper and staple them around the hole. Glue bits of fluffy tissue paper to the edge of the circle and place the entire flower over the face of your clock. What an easy, colorful way to celebrate the blooming of spring!

Hand Pattern!

Use this hand pattern to "point" out important events on your class bulletin board.

To display classroom helpers, simply display the jobs, as shown. Print the children's names on the fingers of the hand patterns. Move the hands from job to job to give everyone a chance to help in the classroom.
